3 from L.B. area 80,000seek relief among holiday toll

Three Long Beach-area residents were killed over the Memorial Day weekend in boating and traffic accidents and in a freak garage accident, while a tourth died of injuries suffered in an earlier traffic erash.

Nationwide, the holiday highway death toll climbed steadily Sunday, the sec-ond full day of the long Memorial Day weekend.

A United Press International count showed that 370 had died in traffic across the nation and 479 from all causes; 69 from drowning, and 40 from miscellaneous causes.

THE NATIONAL Safety Council predicted 530 to 630 persons would be killed in traffic during the 78hour period that extends to midnight Monday. The death toll during the same period last year was 577.

Chris Kenneth Dart, 7, of 233 Lake St., Huntington Beach, was killed Saturday night when a cabin cruiser struck a small boat in the Colorado River near Parker, Ariz.

The Yuma County Sheriff's Department said the Dart boy and a companion, 9-year-old Donald Thornton, of 602 Jana Circle, gton Beach, and grandfather, 62-Huntington year-old Fletcher Dart, of 310 Second Street, Huntington Beach, were fishing from the small aluminum hoat when it was rammed by the cruiser.

Two-vear-old James Delkins, of 2509 W. 82nd St., Torrance, was killed shortly before noon Sunday when struck by an auto in front of his home.

Police said the Delkins boy was playing in his front yard with other children when he darted into the street and was hit by the car. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Gardena Memorial Hospital at 11:30 a.m. The driver of the car was not cited or held, police said.

A 28-year-old Santa Ana man was killed Sunday afternoon when a car under which he was working slipped off a jack and fell on him.

POLICE said Robert E Reedy of 1234 Disney Way, Anaheim, was working on the car at a do-it-yourself garage in the 2900 block on First Street in Santa Ana when the auto fell and crushed him.

Joseph Britt, 15, of 3330 Stevely Ave., Long Beach, died at 6:23 p.m Sunday Community Hospital, at Mission Viejo, of injuries sustained in an auto crash last Friday.

'mix it up' in debate Clash on Vietnam, defense, welfare

By GILBERT BAILEY, From Our National Bureau

'It was a good battle. We both mixed it up," said Sen. Hubert Humphrey Sunday after his first face-to-face televised meeting with Sen. George McGovern in their struggle to win the California Democratic primary.

Humphrey, if quoted out of context, may well have been close to the truth when he said, "we mixed it up," as the candidates tangled over an assortment of mixedup issues ranging from their respective stands on Vietnam, McGovern's welfare and defense proposals and the cost of all those proposals.

It was Humphrey on the attack, an attack directed at McGovern's record and proposals.

McGOVERN WAS THE COOL candidate, smiling slightly as he replied to "my friend Sen. Humphrey." Both men came on strong in their tough struggle for California's 271 delegates to the Democratic National Convention, with McGovern seeming to outpoint Humphrey in the first half-hour on the Vietnam question but Humphrey getting in a number of tough licks in the second half-hour as he questioned the cost of McGovern's welfare program.

"That's exactly right," McGovern said when he was asked if he wanted the public to accept his program without a specific cost figure.

The CBS news show "Face the Nation" from Hollywood was not formally called a debate because of equaltime requirements. It hit the television airways at 6 p.m. on a warm California night when many Californians were at the beach or bar or barbecue, creating real questions about how much effect it will have.

A second debate Tuesday night in prime time when Californians are completing a working day and not facing another holiday may well be the key one for its impact on California voters. A final confrontation will be televised next Sunday.

But the discussions Sunday night did have an impact on the candidates. They sat facing each other, but not Addressing a nationwide television audience at the end of his historic visit, the President said he and Soviet leaders had been able to judge each other personally during their talks and had taken strides to insure peace.

"As great powers, we will sometimes be competitors, but we need never be enemies," the President declared. He enumerated the other

Belfast blast kills 6

Combined News Services

BELFAST - A powerful guerrilla bomb exploded Sunday in a Roman Catholic neighborhood, killing six persons and injuring 18 others in a day of violence in the capital. Security forces said three of the dead from the apparently premature blast were bombmakers of the Irish Republican Army and were high on the wanted list. Later in the day gunmen shot down a man from a fast-moving car in no-man's land between the Protestant Springmartin sector and the staunch Catholic Ballymurphy area. The deaths brought the Northern Ireland toll to 345 killed in nearly three years of sectarian Four other bombs exploded during the day, injuring eight person - including two boys buried in the rubble of a house — and snipers wounded a girl and an elderly woman. Three of the blasts devastated two Belfast shopping areas.

In a letter to the West German News Agency, the "Red Army Faction" said bombs will explode in three automobiles in the streets of Stuttgart streets Friday between 1 and 2 p.m. (5 and 6 a.m. PDT). "Nobody is to be killed in the Stuttgart blasts." the letter said "The Red Army Faction wants to prove it can strike whenever and wherever it doesns it necessary, to remind people of the U.S. imperialists' bombing war in Vietnam.'

Toy, twigs in hijack bid

ATHENS - A young man with a toy mite hijacked an Olympic Airways flight Sunday night but was talked into surrendering when the plane landed here. Police said Evangelos Savvakis, 25, of Crete, who drives road building machines, entered the cockpit of a Crete-to-Athens Flight 10 minutes after take-off and told the pilot to fly to London. The pilot persuaded him to switch to a longrange plane at Athens. A spokesman for Olympic, owned by shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis, said the hijacker said he was suffering from a mysterious fever and wanted treatment. Meanwhile Italian frontier police Sunday arrested a young woman with a Lebanese passport as she was about to board a flight from Rome to Beirut with two .38 caliber pistols strapped to her body. Police said a metal detector at Rome's International Leonardo Da Vinci airport "went mad" when the women, identified as El Amik Kleirie Jomaa, 21 of Kob Elias, Lebanon, walked through. The girl and her father, whom police said knew nothing of his daughder's activities, arrived early Sunday on a flight from Canada.

Tough GI sues Nixon over war

Combined News Services

Immigrant, hardhat and now one of Uncle Sam's machine gunners, Ernest daCosta is so opposed to this war that he sued Pres-ident Nixon.

Yet he is an efficient fighter, a volunteer in an elite reconnaissance pla-toon stalking the enemy-infested bush of War Zone D north of Saigon.

In camouflaged fatigues and a cork-blackened face, the 22-year-old soldier from Queens, N.Y., has risked his life with increasing frequency since Hanoi went on the offensive.

"He's not a goldbrick. He's one of the best damn troops I've got." said his colonel. "I can't understand how he got mixed up with the American Civil Liberties Union."

DaCosta's answer is simple: Opposition to the war coupled with a strong sense of duty to the nation fighting it. For him the American dream came true. He is paying his dues as one of the last American combat "grunts" in Vietnam.

Eustace Tilley's creator dies

Rea Irvin, 90, the creator of the first cover for the New Yorker and hundreds of others in the magazine's early years, died Sunday at Ingeborg Clinic in Fredericksted, the Virgin Islands. Irvin's best known creation was Eustace Tilley, the curious Edwardian who was caught on the New Yorker's first cover peering through a monocle at a butterfly and who has appeared there each year since to mark the magazine's anniversary.

When Harold Ross founded the New Yorker in 1925,
Irvin was the first employe he hired, with the title of art editor. The magazine's covers are still frequently used in introductory courses to show how painters can tell an anecodote without using words. After Ross's death in 1951, Irvin feuded with the magazine. He still submitted drawings occasionally, but they were not accepted. "He would not consider working for anyone else," Mrs. Irvin said. "How he leved that magazine!"

Handicap camp

I have heard of a campground in the High Sierras for handicapped people. Can ACTION LINE get more information? J. W., Long Beach.

The Mammoth Lakes Campground for the Handicapped, a project spon-sored by the Mammoth Ranger District, Inyo National Forest and Mammoth Lakes Lions Club, is located 3 miles west of Mammoth Lakes Village on Twin Lakes, which is 30 miles northwest of Bishop, olf U.S. Highway 395. The camp-ground, fishing pier and nature-trail facilities are designed so handicapped people can use them with as little assistance as possible. The campground has 16 single-family campsite units, one double-family unit and three ground camp units, each accom-modating 35 to 40 people.

Restrooms, water faucets, fireplaces and picnic tables have been modified for convenient use by the handicapped. The central path system is hard-surfaced for wheelchairs and the texture of the cement has been changed at turnoffs to aid blind campers. Presently, the camp has no electrical power nor shower facilities. All lighting is by propane lamps. Due to the high demand for campsites, only families or groups with handicapped people as members are permitted at Mammoth Lakes Campground. Reservations are necessary and you can make them and get more information by writing District Ranger, Box 146, Mammoth Lakes, Callf, 93546. Camp fees are $2 a day per family or $5 a day for each group.

Summer jobs, some're not

What are the requirements for the state's summer youth employment program? D. L., Long Beach.

The California Department of Human Resources Development is administering several summer job programs for teenagers, and the requirements vary with each program. For most of the federally-funded programs, an applicant's family must be receiving public assistance or be in a low-income bracket. There are some summer jobs, however, that do not have any financial requirements. Most of the programs require that the applicant be between the ages of 16 and 18 and planning to return to school in the fall. A spokesman for HRD said that the biggest problem with all of the programs is that there is a tremendous shortage of jobs. Any employer who is willing to hire a teen-ager for the summer should call HRD at 599-5871.

In a nationwide test in early May between Democratic presidential possibilities, including Sen. Edward Kennedy, Sen. George McGovern forged into a narrow one-point lead as the first choice of Democrats and independents. The South Dakota senator has moved up dramatically on the heels of his strong showing in several spring primaries.

Over the past months, the Harris Survey has asked this question of national cross sections of likely voters, the last time on May 9 and 10, among 1,123 Democrats and independents:

"Which one of the people on this list would be your first choice for the Democratic presidential nomination this year? (HAND RESPONDENT LIST)"

McGovern's nationwide rise between early April and mid-May was speciacular. But Hubert Humphrey, Kennedy and Goy. George Wallace also picked up ground since February. (The survey was taken just before the May 15 attempt on Wallace's life.) The big loser, of course, was Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine, the early front-runner who faltered and then dropped out of campaigning in the primaries after Pennsylvania.

When Kennedy's supporters were asked who their second choice would be, the chief beneficiary, taking 41 per cent of his vote, was Humphrey. A smaller 22 per cent of the Kennedy vote went to McGovern, suggesting the potential importance of a Kennedy endorsement in the future. Here is how the lineup looks with Kennedy's vote distributed among his supporters' second-choice prefer-

With Kennedy out. Humphrey assumed a two-point lead over McGovern. However, the Minnesota senator's total of 28 per cent has not grown in the past month, while the preference for both McGovern and Wallace

The cross section of Democrats and independents was then asked a showdown test, limited to Humphrey, McGovern, and Wallace:

"Suppose for the Democratic nomination for President, it came down to a choice between Senator Hubert Humphrey, Senator George McGovern, and Governor George Wallace. Whom would you be for?"

- Humphrey's strength is heavily rooted among blacks, the less well educated, enrolled Democrats and male voters. But he does have significant backing in all four regions of the country

 McGovern leads in every region outside the South, but runs a poor third below the Mason-Dixon line. He easily wins the under-30 vote, the college-educated and independents, while he edges out Humphrey among whites and women voters. In light of the attention being paid to blue-collar voters, it is significant that McGovern is not far behind Wallace among high-school graduates. who constitute a substantial portion of the so-called "protest" vote this year.

... Wallace sweens the South, but before the shooting was elearly in third place in the rest of the country. His strength is greatest among older voters, the least well educated, whites and men. Wallace and Humphrey appear to draw their support from the same pattern, except that Wallace has no appeal among blacks. looking at each other, for port for the war while vice a long moment after the before rising to shake hands.

Both men promised to support the other if he turns out to be the winner of the Democratic nomination, but such support cannot override the body blows each struck Sunday, blows well counted by the Republican opposition.

For McGovern, some of those blows included quoting Humphrey as saying Vietnam was "our greatest adventure and a wonderful one at that" in October 1967.

countered Humphrey that the two had voted the some from the start -"We were both wrong" --and said his "greatest adventure" comment re-ferred to "nation build-

Obviously McGovern was counting on Humphrey's support for the war as vice president under Lyndon Johnson as a key factor in his campaign against the Minnesota senator.

"THE PEOPLE do not want a rerun of 1968 in 1972." said McGovern in conclusion.

The two tangled hard over McGovern's proposal to cut defense expenditures to a little below $55 billion. with McGovern pointing out that Humphrey had proposed a $50-billion de-Tense budget in a 1970 newspaper column.

"Nor am I about to let Sen. McGovern's policies make us a second-rate power," said Humphrey.

"Why should the American taxpayers 27 years af-ter World War II still maintain 500,000 troops on the ground in Western Europe?" replied McGovern, who said he felt his $55-hillion budget was adequate to protect the U.S. and would in fact increase the submarine fleet.

HUMPHREY also attacked McGovern's welfare proposal, claiming it would cost $72 billion per year. But McGovern fired back that the figures used by Humphrey referred to a bill he had sponsored for the National Welfare Rights Organization only "to get it a hearing" and did not involve his own welfare plan.

His own plan, McGovern said, would provide a basic income supplement of $1,000 per person.

McGovern pointedly noted that this would provide $1,000 for a family of four. while Humphrey's proposal would give the same family $3,000.

McGovern added that his plan would benefit wage carners up to the $12,000 bracket, and between $12,000 and $20,000 would only cost the taxpayers $21 more per year.

He said of Humphrey's much higher tax-cost estirinatrs just not HOWEVER, McGovern did not come up with a cost figure.

"There is no way you could devise a welfare system worse than the one we've got now," said Me-Govern.

Humphrey retorted by calling McGovern's plan a compounded welfare mess."

On points the issues came out something like

Victnam: McGovern matched his longtime opposition to war with Humphrey's present opposition bul noted Humphrey's sup-president.

Welfare: McGovern has a plan but he doesn't know what it costs, white Humphrey quotes a money figure for another welfare plan which doesn't belong to McGovern.

- Defense budget: Mc-Govern claims $55 billion is adequate while Humphrey says it isn't, al-though two years ago Humphrey said $50 billion was enough.

On the CBS panel were George Herman and David Schoumacher of CBS and David S. Broder of the Washington Post.

Both candidates came out of the hour-long discussion convinced there was a lot more to be said and with an agreement that one of the subjects will be tax reform. But both seemed satisfied with the Humphrey emerged from the CBS Television City and told newsmen, "I think we did well," But he added: "I'll leave if up to you as to whether either candidate won. It was a very, very good exchange."

A few minutes later McGovern came out, still wearing his makeup, and said: "On balance, I was reasonably satisfied."

McGOVERN also declined to speculate on the possible effect of the lively exchange on California's 5 million registered Demo-

That, he said, "is something that can only be de-termined by talking to vot-ers and seeing how they reacted to the debate."

Both senators said they are looking forward to the next two debates and the chance to get into some of the issues more deeply. Humphrey specifically mentioned tax reform, saying he wanted to explore that issue more thorough-

Humphrey defended the role of aggressor he played early in the debate, critieizing McGovern on a variety of issues, even though he has not been asked specifically to comment on

"I THINK the people expect the issues to be discussed candidly, openly and vigorously," he said, McGovern told reporters, in response to a question, 'I was a little startled" that Humphrey altacked him on the issues so pointedly early in the debate.

During the program, especially during commercial breaks and when the other was talking, the two senators frequently re-ferred to manifa folders on their desks which contained material on their and their opponent's position.

At one point, Humphrey held up an advertisement on tax programs run by McGovern in the Wall Street Journal last week later. McGoyern pulled out the 1970 newspaper column written by Humphrey.

BEFORE the program. Humphrey underwent a briefing for the debate. McGovern and some of his advisers held what one described as a relaxed session discussing the positions he planned to present.

Asked afterward if they are still friends. Humphrey "On, sure. We are senators. We're accus-tomed to adversary pro-We're accusceedings.

Papers found in Arthur Bremer's car provide documentary evidence that the man accused of attempting to assassinate Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama had traveled to Canada earlier to try to kill President Nixon, it was reported Sunday.

Newesweek magazine said it learned from sources close to the investigation into Bremer's activities that "Bremer made his way to Canada with the express purpose of killing Mr. Nixon but apparently found security what amounts to a long and rambling log of Bre-mer's quest" written in longhand, the news magazine said.

The log was the "various pages of lined notebook paper containing miscellaneous items" that federal agents reported finding in Bremer's car May 15 after Wallace was gunned down at a rally at Laurel, Md., Newsweek said.

"Federal investigators believe that Bremer covered thousands of miles in pursuit of Mr. Nixon and preceded the shooting in Laurel," Newsweek said.

Authorities believe Bremer had "set his sights exclusively on Wallace and the President" although Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey also figures in their reconstructed itinerary, the magazine said.

"The journal runs to nearly 100 pages and, like the random scribblings found in his unkempt Milwaukee apartment, reads like a commentary on his own behavior and actions,' according to one insider," Newsweek said.

this evidence was as solid as "a ton of bricks."

Bremer, spotted in photographs of a crowd during the Nixon visit to Canada, left Milwankee April 9 by car to arrive in Oltawa in time for the President's there, Newsweek said.

"Ironically, Bremer who had already brought the two guns he took with him to Laurel - stayed at the Lord Elgin Hotel, which also was being used by an advance party of U.S. Secret Service agents." Newsweek said.

Bremer was waiting on April 14 when Nixon shook hands with the crowd outside the Parliament building but "most of those around Bremer were hostile students from Toronto and the President was safely steered away from them," the magazine said.

Meanwhile, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, visited Wallace Sunday in Silver Spring, Md. and agreed with the doctors that the Alabama governor "shows improvement" in his recovery from a would-be assassin's bullets.

Muskie and his wife, Jane, visited the Democratic presidential candidate and his family at Holy Cross Hospital for about an hour during the morning and spent about 15 minutes in the governor's intensive-care unit.

Muskie told reporters afterward that the governor seemed "in good spirits. He seemed glad to see us and we thought he showed improvement."

During the afternoon, Wallace was put in a wheelchair and for the first time since he entered the hospital, he left the intensive-care unit and spent 15 minutes with his wife.

A noon medical advisory aid "the governor continues to show overall improvement in his general physicial condition. His bowel activity is regaining normal regularity. The abscesses in his wounds are clearing rapidly and show-ing fresh healing."

The medical bulletin said it was expected that Wal-lace would sit in a wheelchair several times during removal of the bullet.

The advisory said a decision had not been made on whether to transfer Wal-lace to another hospital for

Duke to be buried by Windsor Castle; world pays tribute

LONDON (UPI) - The body of the Duke of Windsor will be flown to London Wednesday for burial, Buckingham Palace said

The body will lie in state Friday and Saturday in St. George's Chapel in Wind-sor Castle, 23 miles west of London, and will be buried June 5. The duchess will accompany the body to England and reportedly will stay at Buckingham

The duke, who died early Sunday at the age of 77, will be buried in Fragmore Mausoleum across the lake from Frogmore House in Windsor Park about onehalf mile from Windsor Castle. Queen Victoria, and her husband, Prince Albert, are also buried in the mausoleum, St. George's Chapel, 500 ears old, ranks with Westminster Abbey as a mausoleum. The chapel is decorated with historic insignia including the swords, helmets and banners of the Knights of the Garter, oldest order of chilvary in Europe.

THE FIRST king buried there was Edward IV in 1483. Henry VIII was interred in 1547 alongside Jane Seymour, as he had directed in his will. Charles I, beheaded in 1649, is also buried at St. George's Chapel.

World leaders Sunday mourned the death of the duke, who as Edward VIII renounced the throne of England 36 years ago to marry an American divor-

Queen Elizabeth, who learned of her uncle's death while at Windsor telegraphed her condolences to his widowed duchess, the former Wallis Warfield Simpson.

"I know that my people will always remember him with gratitude and great affection and that his services to them in peace and war will never he forgotten," the queen said in her message.

PRESIDENT Nixon. winding up his summit talks with Soviet leaders in Moscow, said: "Mrs. Nix-on and I are both deeply saddened by the death of the Duke of Windsor, He was a man of noble spirit and high ideals for whom millions of Americans felt deep respect and affec-

In Canberra, Australian Prime Minister William McMahon said: "Many will recall the brilliant success of his visit to Australia more than 50 years ago, with his youth and charm."

"HIS DECISION to abdicate so shortly after succeeding his father was the result of events which greatly moved all members of the British Commonwealth," Mc Mahon

The Duke of Gloucester, Edward's brother and now the only surviving child of King George V and Queen Mary, was reported ailing at his Northamptonshire home in England.

The duke was the first great-grandchild of Queen Victoria, born while she was still on the throne in 1994. As Prince of Wales, he served a long apprenticeship of duty to the Empire to prepare for his succession in 1936.

He paid repeated and dangerous visits to the front lines in World War I and, after the war, trav-tled throughout the British Empire, "bringing the reality of the monarchy to the farthest outposts.

For millions around the world, the romance of King Edward VIII of England and Mrs. Simpson, a twice-divorced American, was the love story of the century.

But for Britain it meant a constitutional crisis that rocked an empire.

IN THE second week of November 1935, Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin called a meeting of senior ministers to discuss the king's association with Mrs. Simpson.

The government considered the association damaging to Britain's name throughout the world. It decided either the king must give up Mrs. Simpson or else it would resign and no other government would be prepared to take its place.

When the king was informed of this virtual ultimatum, his first reaction was outraged fury.

On Nov. 16, he summoned Baldwin. He asked him if the friendship with Mrs. Simpson had sparked a constitutional crisis.

Baldwin, a man of blunt directness, said: "Yes."

THE KING replied: "I intend to marry Mrs. Simpson as soon as she is free to marry."

"Sir," replied Baldwin, "that is most grievious news."

For two more weeks the crisis rumbled on beneath the surface.

Then on Dec. 1, the Bishop of Bradford lit the match in a speech criticizing the king for failure to give moral leadership to the nation.

The British press took this as its cue. The next morning it ended its selfimposed silence about the romance and for the first time told millions of Britons that the king was embroiled in a constitutional dispute with his govern-ment over his desire to marry a twice-divorced American commoner.

AS BALDWIN later told Parliament, the issue was not that Mrs. Simpson was an American or a commoner. It was that she was a divorcee with two former husbands still living.

The entire British press, with the exception of Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, took the side of the government.

Mrs. Simpson left Britain for France to escape the storm. The king closeted himself at his country retreat at Fort Belvedere, near Windsor.

Baldwin journeyed back and forth between London and Fort Belvedere seeking to dissuade the king.

The king's mother, the dowager Queen Mary, and his brothers, the dukes of York, Gloucester and Kent, added their voices.

But the more they sought to dissuade him, the more stubborn the king became.

At one point he suggested an arrangement with Mrs. Simpson to be accepted as his wife but not as. The next day he went into queen. Baldwin refused.

The issue thus became clear cut - either the king must abandon his plans to marry Mrs. Simpson or he must quit. He quit.

On the morning of Dec. 10, in the presence of his brothers, he signed the instrument of abdication.

U.S. scores in minicar

sales war

Imports hurting as domestic prices compete By JERRY M. FLINT New York Times Service

DETROIT - The rolling counterattack from Detroit and Washington against foreign-made cars is succeeding.

Fewer Americans than in recent years past are buying the little German Volkswagen and Japanese Datsun automobiles; instead, they are ordering more American mini and compact-sized models.

And the foreign car sellers with their merchandise piling up are cutting prices, but in the strange paradox of the auto busi-ness that is likely to hurt the imports even more.

The rollback is just starting; imported car sales still are high and probably 1.4 million, most from Japan and Germany, will be sald in the 11.5 this will be sold in the U.S. this year. But there's no ques-tion that the invaders who captured nearly 1.6 million customers in 1971 and were taking almost one of five new car sales last summer are falling back. That's significant because:

AFTER YEARS in which foreign manufacturers captured or made serious inroads in market after market in this country — steel, clothing, radios and the like - an American industry has shown that its products, with effective government help, can hold their own against the im-

A serious threat to the obs of hundreds of thousands of workers in the automobile industry is being eased,

In the long run, the roll-back could help reduce the nation's trade deficit — a deficit that in April stood at $699 million, the second largest in history. This year's trade deficit is expected to be larger than the $2 billion deficit of 1971; last year's was the first such trade deficit for the U.S. in this country.

We've got enough variety now to do the job," said John Delorean, general manager of the Chevrolet Division of the General Motors Corp. Production of the small Vega car will be increased from 400,00 a year to 550,000 a year in the fall.

"THE IMPORTS are under pressure now," Zimmerman, Frank marketing manager Motor Company. "Two years ago there wasn't any domestic sub-compact" — subcompact is Detroit's word for a small small car. Now that the American small cars are lower priced than the imports and the slightly compact models larger match the prices of the smaller imports, he says, the price advantage has moved to the Americans.

And more smaller American cars are coming: Oldsmobile of General Motors will offer a compact model this fall, a version of the Chevrolet Nova. A from September, Ford will introduce a tinylow-priced Mustang model. And the more small American models available, the more likely an American is to buy one of them instead of an import.

IN THE FIRST four months of this year sales of foreign-made cars in the U.S. totaled 488,000, trailing the 502,000 sales in the first four months of last year, At the same time sales of American-built cars were up 5 per cent to ta total of 2,852,000.

But significantly, the big sellers among the imports are in trouble. Volkswagen, the biggest of the forcian car makers, sold only 239,000 cars in the U.S. in the last seven months, a drop of 100,000 cars or 29 per cent from its sales the year before.

"WE'RE TRYING to figure it (the decline) out ourselves," said John Cut-

North Hollywood. He reports that sales are down 25 per cent from a year ago, but blames "confusion in people's minds" because of the price changes in imported cars.

During the January through April period this year, sales of the three American small cars -Ford Motor Company's Pinto, the best seller, the Vega from General Motors and the Gremlin of American Motors Corporation -totaled 248,000, for a 15 per cent increase over the year-before period. The sales of the slightly larger American compact cars totaled 410,000 ~ another 15 per cent gain. THE PROBLEMS the import cars now face could snowball. For although sales are falling, the home factories in Germany and

Japan are reluctant to stop

The VW car is confronted by "the greatest single challenge we will face: A small car (from American factories) at our price and on top of that the President of the United States also is helping. A double whammy," one spokesman The three American companies introduced their small cars in 1970, but they came out later that year, and the General Motors small car was hurt by a lengthy strike immediately after its introduction. But their sales have been picking up steadily and profitable, and that in turn those sales, combined with the government actions, apparently turned the tide.

The federal government, after the announcement of president Nixon's new economic policy last August, took these actions:

The Saigon command reported heavy fighting near the embattled district town of Dat Do, 45 miles southof Saigon in Phuoc Tuy Province, which has been the target of Viet Cong attacks during the past several weeks. The command claimed 75 enemy killed with help from air and artillery strikes, but reported only five weapons taken. Two South Vietnamese soldiers were reported killed and seven wounded.

Delayed field reports dis-closed that South Vietnamese forces suffered a major defeat Friday on the southern front at An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon.

North Vietnamese troops firing from ambush and mines destroyed 23 of 47 South Vietnamese armored personnel carriers trying to evacuate wounded soldiers from bloody fighting along Highway 13 south of An Loc. The field reports said 42 South Vietnamese soldjers namese songers were killed and 159 wounded in the ambush.

THE SAIGON command said Sunday that a relief column trying to break through to An Loc and clear Highway 13 had made no significant prog-ress. Sixty-one North Vietnamese troops and seven South Vietnamese were reported killed in fighting Saturday along Highway 13. Twenty-six South Vietnamese soldiers were wounded, the Saigon command said

Associated Press corresnondent David J. Paine reported from inside Kontum that heavy fighting continuing for the fourth successive day in the southeastern sector of the city between a North Vietnamese force of up to 300 troops and South Vietnamese defenders.

At the same time, the North Vietnamese clung to three strategically placed positions on the northern rim of the city.

Nixon spoke on the eve of his departure from the Soviet Union. He was the first U.S. president to visit and the first to visit the Soviet Union since President Franklin D. Roosevelt's wartime visit to Yalta to confer with Josef Stalin.

BEFORE speaking, Nixon attended worship services with his wife at the Moscow Baptist Church, the only Protestant church in Moscow. They heard a sermon, in Russian, about love and joy and peace and joined in, is English, when the congregation sang in Russian hymnas familiar in the United States. One of them was "What a Friend We Have in

The Nixons will visit Iran and Poland on their return to the U.S. They are due back in Washington late Thursday.

Despite a light drizzle during part of the day, Mrs. Nixon took a twohour walking tour of the 62-acre, walled Kremlin, marveling at the Russian crown jewels and confessing a strong liking for black Russian caviar. "It's delicious," she said, "but terribly expensive. won't find me serving it at the White House."

Nixon's speech, delivcred from an elegant Louis XIV table and in front of an elaborate patterened paper, contained no direct mention of Vietnam although he seemed to allude to it --- and no criticism of the Soviet's policy.

His conciliatory tone was in contrast with the speech Nixon delivered to the Soviet people in 1959 when he visited the country as vice president. At that time, he accused the Soviets of aggression and lying and told them "neither of us can or will tolerate being pushed

IN HIS Sunday night speech, he forgot those harsh words and recalled the parts of the 1959 address in which he urged cooperation in exploring outer space, combatting hunger and preventing disease.

In what seemed an obvious reference to Vietthe President said nam. that the two nuclear superpowers should try to avoid being set at odds by conflicts between smaller nations.

"Our goals should be to discourage aggression in other parts of the world particularly among those smaller nations that look to us for leadership and example." he said.

"With great power goes great responsibility. When man walks in with a giant tread he must be careful where he sets his feet. There can be true peace only when the weak are as safe as the strong."

The U.S.-Soviet treaty on limitation of antimissile systems and an accompanying agreement to curb numbers of offensive missiles do not actually come right out and mention spy satellites.

Instead, the documents say each nation "shall use national technical means of verification at its disposal." adding that they undertake "not to interfere" with these means. Administration officials confirmed privately that lechnical "national means" refers to recon-

But Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's adviser on national security affairs, told reporters this weekend that negotiators may altempt to close the loophole during an early round of bargain-

"In the next phase of discussions, we may address the question of technological change which is one of the great driving forces of the arms race at this particular point," Kissinger said.

Article 4 of the agreement on strategic offensive arms signed by Nixon and Russia's Leonid I. Brezhnev codified the loophole:

"Modernization and replacement of strategic offensive ballistic missiles and launchers ... may be undertaken." In this contest, the Appearing solemn, he pleaded for tolerance between different systems of government as long as they seek to live peacefully with each other.

"WE AMERICANS are idealists," he said, "and we delieve deeply in our own system of government. We cherish our personal liberty. We would fight to defend it if necessary, as we have done hefore, but we also believe deeply in the right of each nation to choose its own system. Therefore, however much we like our own system for ourselves we have no desire to impose it on anyone cise.1

"As we work toward a more peaceful world let us think of Tanya," he said. "Let us do all that we can to ensure that no other children will have to endure what Tanya did."

Washington Com-Ĭn merce Secretary Peter G. Peterson denied Sunday that the Vietnam war stood in the way of a U.S.-Soviet trade agreement at the Moscow summit, and predicted the two nations would make "real prog-ress" when trade talks open in July.

Independent Press-Telegram

Doctor says Lincoln had heart disorder

President's rapidly failing health toward the end of his life was probably due to a heart-valve disorder

Dr. Harold Schwartz of Lynwood, in a report in the latest issue of California Medicine, a medical journal, says that new evidence discredits one long-held theory about Lincoln's poor health.

Some historians and medical authorities have attributed Lincoln's physical decline to emotional factors attendant upon the burdens of office and a tragic war.

"That's not very likely," Dr. Schwartz said in a telephone interview with the Independent, Press-Telegram, "Lincoln had so much fortitude."

Anyway, Dr. Schwartz maintains that Lincoln's emotional problems had been resolved by the time his health had started to go "downhill."

"The period preceding Mr. Lincoln's violent death was one of easing burdens, lessening anxiety and lightening of spirit as the War Between the States drew to its long-awaited close. The health of the president, however, continued to deteriorate ever more rapidly."

DR. SCHWARTZ says the evidence suggests that Lincoln's health decline was attributable to a condition known as aortic insufficiency — a leaky valve between the aorta, the great artery, and the heart's main pumping chamber. Such a condition causes a back flow of blood,

This particular aortic valve defect is a common disorder in a condition known as Marfan syndrome. Lincoln is believed to have had this hereditary disorder.

The Marfan syndrome is characterized by a slender clongated body, long arms and long legs, long slender fingers and a variety of other symptoms.

Dr. Schwartz reported this likelihood in 1964 in a special report in the Journal of the American Medical Association. The

An authority on the medical history of doctor became interested in the subject Abraham Lincoln says that the 16th when he treated a Marfan victim several years ago, a young boy who proved to be a descendant of Mordecai Lincoln II, a great-great grandfather of Abraham Lin-

> THE NEW evidence that Lincoln had heart-valve trouble associated with Marfan syndrome comes from a photograph of Lincoln and a historical account of a discussion of the photograph.

Dr. Schwartz cites a segment in a book entitled "Lincoln in Photographs."

According to the account, Lincoln was discussing a photograph of himself. Lincoln said to Noah Brooks, a newspaper-

"I can understand that foot should be so enormous. It's a big foot anyway, and it is near the focus of the instrument. But why is the outline of it so indistinct and blurred? I am confident I did not move suggested to Lincoln that throbbing of arteries may have caused an imperceptible motion.

Lincoln crossed his legs and watched

"That's it! That's it!" he exclaimed to Brooks. "Now that's very curious, isn't Dr. Schwartz explains that such visible pulsations result from sudden filling of large collapsed arterics accompanying the condition of aortic insufficiency. He says one doctor has described the phe-nomenon as "vascular dance." And a patient who wrote a book about his heart disorder phrased it this way: "And when crossed my legs and let my muscles relax, the upper leg jumped up and down a spring, keeping perfect rhythm with the beat of my heart muscle.

So Dr. Schwartz has given the phenomenon — pulsating suspended leg and foot — the following name: the Lincoln-Brooks sign of aortic insufficiency.

The CTA could not have shocked the leaders of Compton more if it had bombed City Hall.

A few days later the Compton Local Government Advisory Board, representative of the various governmental and educational groups, cried "Smear!" in a press conference. The troubles of Compton, the leaders claimed, are those of all public schools. Compton, they implied, had been libeled because of racial reasons.

Both views cannot be true. One way to get at least a glimpse of truth is to visit a school. So I spent an afternoon at Compton High.

And what did I see?

I saw crowds of teen-agers going to and from classes and sitting in classrooms. I was impressed by their quality. They are merry and courteous kids. I heard no shouts of anger. I saw few sullen faces. I saw no flashing switchblades. Many of them were better dressed than is standard in this casual era.

But I did see the charred shell of the swimming poof building. It was burned a few days ago, almost certainly by an arsonist.

My tour guides were Robert W. Boyd, Area II administrator, and Principal Aaron C. Wade, so I was taken to the places of which they are especially proud. But both of them said, "We will take you any place you want to go and introduce you to anyone you want to meet. And feel free to drop in at any time."

Wade ranks high with the young people. They go out of their way to say "Hello" and some even kid him a bit. But it is obvious that he is the man in authority.

There are uniformed armed guards on the campus. They look like policemen, but they have no power of ar-

"THEY ARE PLANT SECURITY guards," Wade said. "They should be given more authority and they should be specially trained for problems that can arise in high schools. And I think they should be armed with sticks. A gun can be too definitive."

Both men frankly discussed violence and discipline. "Most of the trouble comes from outside," Wade

The school is surrounded by eight-foot crowd control fences which are no harrier to an agile young fellow. Outside doors are locked, but trouble makers find ways

"In the district this year there have been three ex-pulsions for assaults on teachers," Boyd said, "Incidentally those were the only expulsions. We use other methods, such as suspension.

Compton High has the fewest problems. Dominguez has more trouble. Centennial is the worst of all. "Centennial is out of my area," Boyd said. "I'm not sure I understand all the sociological problems involved. Much of the area is outside the city. The people, I think, are less settled and more poverty-stricken.

CENTENNIAL HAS DRAMATICALLY reduced its problems by reregistering all students, giving them ID cards, holding conferences with parents or other responsible adults and increasing security.

Two of Compton High's problems are typical of all public high schools. They are smoking and drugs.
"Our No. 1 discipline problem is smoking," Wade said. "Under state law we must try to keep youngsters from smoking. I wish it weren't so. Many of the students smoke at home and their parents give them money for tobacco. This problem diverts as from more important matters."

Drugs have shown a sharp decline in the last two years. "It may be that the kids have become more so-phisticated and secretive in their use," Boyd said, "I hope it is an actual decline in a tragic problem. All high schools in Southern California report a decline in drugs."

Compton civic leaders have accused newsmen of emphasizing what is bad in the city and ignoring the solid achievements. At Compton High schoolmen have many Sixty per cent of the graduates go to college. Forty per cent go to Compton Junior College, the rest to var-ious colleges in the area and throughout the nation. A few are in the prestige schools such as Harvard and Sarah Lawrence. One is a midshipman at Annapolis.

Seventy-five per cent pursue additional education. The national average is between 40 and 45 per cent.

"To understand this," Wade said, "you have to understand black parents. They know the importance of education and they take great pride in having children in college. I have known families that have impoverished themselves to send their children to college."

The Compton Unified School District is, however, realistic in its emphasis on academic achievement. Most of these young people — college or not — will have to enter a job market which still has invisible bars against

SO COMPTON HIGH, aided by the Federal Vocational Education Act, places heavy emphasis on job training. It is possible for the student to carry out his college preparatory course and also become qualified for

The philosophy of vocational education is that the child should be trained in all levels of the job.

Consider the courses in restaurant work. Blacks have for long considered such jobs demeaning, a service remnant of slavery. It is quite different at Compton. The students are in charge of the Empire Room, the faculty dining room. They learn about the restaurant business how to meet people, business problems, decor, the art of being a good waiter or waitress, preparation of food and all the subtleties of a complex business. Many of the alumni have found good restaurant jobs, often in managerial positions

The other vocational courses are taught in the same manner. The business courses do not turn out mere typist-stenographers. The students work in all levels of a business office from receptionist to management.

DAILY THE NURSES AIDES board buses for practical training in hospitals. The graphic arts department teaches students to run linotypes and a press, to operate a darkroom and other work of the printing trades. The architectural draftsmen produce near-professional draw-

The school receives practical cooperation from North American Rockwell, Northrup and other industries, Professionals help develop the courses — and jobs are waiting for top students

The visitor gets the feeling thal Compton High could do with more money. The graphic arts building, for example, is a "temporary" building left over from World War II. Always more could be done with more equip-

"We try to motivate students to accept the fact that all is not peaches and cream and may never be," Wade said. "Even in good jobs they may have to accept obsolete equipment and unsuitable quarters. We do the best job we can with what we have.'

Compton organizations are winning honors. The Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps has received awards. Incidentally, the ROTC is not harassed by other students. They're proud of their men in uniform.

The hand received a roaring welcome on its recent visit to Mexico City. The speech team took honors in the state competition in San Francisco.

THE CALIFORNIA TEACHERS Association described the morale of the teachers as extremely depressed. At Compton High the depression was not visible. I met several who impressed me as true professionals very keen on their jobs.

I glanced into a number of classrooms. They looked the way classes should look.

All is not well in Compton and its schools, however The police spend much of their working day roaring to schoolhouses. Shocking facts and rumors are called to the attention of reporters. The black press prints much news of disorder in the schools. Wade believes the police force should be substantially increased. Surely the leadership of Compton plays down these nditions at its risk.

But the other side of the Compton situation is exciting, even inspiring. Here are people struggling against poverty and prejudice and the sad heritage of slaveryand doing it very well. They have zeal and a sense of purpose. They are cheerful and courteous and often highly sophisticated. They are out to win. I think they

THE BALBOA STUDIO at Sixth and Alamitos in Long Beach was an important producer of silent films

It started as a cheap serial mill. according to Kalton C. Lahue, a youthful San Jose State graduate who has written a history of the chapter plays ("Bound and chapter plays ("Bound and Gagged," A. S. Barnes and Company, $7.50.)

H. M. Horkheimer, an established theatrical producer, formed Balboa in 1913 on a shoestring of $7,000.

In 1914 Balboa contracted with Pathe for release of its serials. Two 1915 thrillers were less than epics. Harry Harvey directed "Neal of the Navy" on a bonus deal. He was to collect $500 extra if he could complete the serial in 12 weeks.

Harvey did the first eight episodes in six weeks. Author Lahue comments crisply: "It showed."

"The Red Circle" was just as shaky and Pathe rejected several of

THE MEN AT PATHE were a fussy lot. They insisted upon seeing ail episodes of a serial before it was released. This was unusual in the day of pellmell competition when serials were often a quick hash of studio leftovers.

Pathe's bosses thought any action drama could be told well in ten installments. In the rush to market, other studios released the first few episodes and then made as many more as the patrons could stand. To publicize "The Broken Coin,"

Universal gave the first ticket-holders souvenir coins stamped with the secret code of the mystery. (One sold a few years ago for $50). The phony money stunt caught on so well that the serial was extended to 22 episodes. To sell the serial to the demanding young fans, the first chapter had to be a thriller. The last one was a smasher designed to coax the kids back for the next bout with The Clutching Claw.

THERE WERE EASY WAYS to stretch out a chapter play. One was to use more subtitles and keep them lingering on the screen until the audience jeered. The other was to use every other chapter to explain where everybody was - the heroine being chloroformed by the mad scientist . . . the here battling twelve giants in an opium den . . the mysterious hooded rider still slogging through the swamp. Next Chapter XX-Revenge in the Sawmill.

Remember the heroes? Eddie Polo, William Desmond, King Bag-Herbert Rawlinson, Antonio Moreno, Jack Hoxie, Art Acord, the master stuntman Charles Hutchison, and (after sound) Buster Crabbe.

Heroines were Allene Ray, Anita Heromes were Allene Redgwick, Grace Stewart, Eileen Sedgwick, Grace Cunard and Arline Pretty. The box-office champs were Pearl White, who used few doubles, and Ruth Roland, many of whose stunts were performed by a small cowboy named Robert Rose.

No villain was more sinister than Warner Oland.

ELMO LINCOLN posed as a tower of power. In "The Adventures of Tarzan," he made a wild grab for the heroine, Louise Lorraine, whose costume had been pinned up. A pin pricked Elmo's finger. He screamed and dropped Louise.

When the crew broke into gales of hilarity, Elmo stalked off the set, vowing to return only for a full apology.

The director, Robert F. Hill, was more than Lincoln's match. He thought up an elaborate gag. Then he announced he would complete the serial without the pouting hero.

Hill explained his plan to insert a scene with a witch doctor. The witch doctor would put a curse on Tarzan. Then Lincoln's double, Montague, would swim across the river.

On the other side he would emerge — as a 9-year-old boy. Monty hurried to tattle the scheme to Elmo, who promptly surrendered. But Universal's magul, Carl Laemmle, took the witch doctor gag seriously and insisted on using the scene. Production was held up several days before Hill talked him out of it. (COMING ATTRACTION: Chapter II-The Sinners in Seal Beach.)

LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA, MONDAY, MAY 29, 1972

Someone to turn to

State Senator James Mills is trying again to put over an idea that was first advanced in the California Legislature by Jess Unruh.

The idea is that the state should have an official ombudsman who would look into citizens' complaints and speak up for them when the bureaucracy bungles.

Previous ombudsman proposals were killed in the Legislature in 1965 and 1967.

A STATEMENT in 1965 by Sen. Luther Gibson, D-Vallejo, probably goes far toward explaining why. "As far as I'm concerned," Gibson said, "I want my own staff looking after my flock."

If a constituent's problem is solved, the legislator naturally wants to get the credit.

But the IF is too big for com-

The legislator's staff may not have the time to solve the problem. It may not have the inclination. It really never has the duty.

Its duty, after all, is to help the legislator with his primary job. That job is legislating, not clearing up tangles in state departments.

So as the bureaucracy grows and while Governor Reagan has slowed its growth he hasn't stopped it - the legislators will have to make a decision.

Either they will let the handling of citizen complaints encroach on the time they give their primary job, or they will set up an independent agency to try to provide assurance that every complaint will be attended to in an orderly, objective fash-

CREATION of the office of ombudsman would not bar legislators, other state officials or newspapers from looking into citizen complaints. But it would provide a central agency for screening out unfounded complaints. It would eliminate a good deal of duplicated effort by legislative staffs and state employes. And it could do much to make state offices responsive to reasonable complaints.

Senator Mills' bill contains safeguards to keep the ombudsman's office free from partisan politics and to keep the ombudsman from using the office as a political stepping stone. The proposal is worth a try.

Now for the good news

Let those who say newspapers only report the bad news look at the Independent, Press-Telegram's file of stories on the Garden Grove Strawberry Festival.

In a scholarly mood we analyzed the file the other day and found.

• 435 column inches — the equivalent of 21/2 full newspaper pages - reporting joyful festival news over the years: strawberry blondes would be rounded up, electronic organs would be played, the mayor would cut a 500-pound strawberry cake, someone planned to drop a manned kite into free flight from a hot air balloon, the Garden Grove Artisans Guild announced plans to display and sell art at this year's l'estival, May 26-29.

 171 column inches of articles reporting had news, most of it about rowdyism, fears that the festival would be canceled and a warning from the mayor of Westminster that festival paraders would not be welcome in his town. So the strawberry festival produced 72 per cent good news to 28 per cent bad news.

That is pretty much the way the whole world goes. But the bad news sometimes hits us so hard we think that's all there is.

Incidentally, our calculations did not include the article reporting that Senator Hubert Humphrey would lead the festival parade this year. It had been mislaid. And it would have been hard to categorize anyway.

Defeating their purpose

This is to protest the bombing of the Pentagon by anti-war groups. Many, many people are opposed to this war and all wars. But when anti-war groups resort to actual physical injury with weapons of any sort, they are just as bad as those they protest against — whether those they protest against are in the Pentagon, the Kremlin, the people's palace, Peking or government offices in Hanoi.

Problems are not solved by the use of force, even when it is confined to the use of fists. Almost inevitably, fresh problems arise because force has been used.

This is certainly true of international problems. It may not be entirely true in civilian problems for police force is necessary in all societies. There will, probably, always be civilians who pose physical threats to property or life -- whether fair or unfair. In such cases, they must be restrained by a minimal degree of force - if necessary, physical. If they act illegally, which is so in most cases, the results are both an ethical and a legal matter. In deep appreciation

EDITOR:

Recently my husband was involved in an automobile accident. When the Califorma Highway Patrol Officer reached me by phone, he handled the call in a most appreciative way. Rather than throwing such words at me as "hospital" and "police." he immediately relaxed me by saying, "This is a friend of John's. He asked me to call you." What could I fear if a friend was calling?

This officer had put a great deal of thought in his conversation and it was deeply appreciated. However, this appreciation goes much further than a telephone call. These men often risk their lives to make ours just that much better. The words "thank you" sound so small but

This mournful question must now loom large in the American mind.

If Richard Nixon had won in 1960, and later completely reversed his positions by visiting China and Russia in 1962, would we have been spared at least 10 years aftermath of our Vietnam involvement?

It seems to be generally agreed that no Democratic president could have done this against an expected Republican opposition. Long Beach SAM WHITMAN

How many Long Beach residents are among the 60,000 Americans who had serum hepatitus last year? Perhaps we had some who were among the 6,000 dead. Those who had it have a more realistic story to tell than I do.

For every pint of blood donated perhaps that means one less pint of contaminated blood used. It costs nothing to give. The pint you give may save a life. Long Beach R. BYRD.

tough job on his hands. He's been asked by the Long Beach City Council to prepare a report on the May, 11 demonstration aboard the Queen

The demonstration ended in a melee on the Queen, an eruption of shouting, writhing confusion in which five protesters were arrested and two others - a plainclothes policeman

In the wake of the demonstration, charges were levelel before the City Council by protesters that police "ov-erreacted," that officers moved in on demonstrators without warning.

Then, with surprising suddenness, a series of struggles began, seemingly almost simultaneously, in the fight-packed crowd. What touched them off, I didn't see. charges of police overreaction?

Most of those who protested that night aboard the Queen Mary also had taken part in an earlier demonstration against the war in Seal Beach in which Pacific Coast Highway traffic was blocked several

Three persons were arrested at that protest but there were no injuries. When protesters first moved into traffic lanes and began halting vehi-cles, Seal Beach Police Chief Lee Case aunounced on a megaphone to the crowd that they were in unlawful assembly and had five minutes to clear the highway.

After that, except for three sporadic dashes into traffic by some protesters - resulting in the arrests - the youthful group confined its demonstration to marching around the crosswalks of a nearby intersection.

MANY OF THOSE who protested aboard the Queen also had demonstrated earlier in the week in front of downtown Long Beach Armed orces Recruiting Center.

The downtown protest was observed by Long Beach Police intelligence officers — who were open about their presence and even consulted with protest leaders - and the event passed without incident.

When Long Beach Police began moving into the crowd on the Queen's Promenade Deck, I was about 20 feet beyond the protest line's first rank, When the line stopped, I trotted back to the crowd's edge.

During that time, I heard no announcement of "unlawful assembly," "disturbing the peace," or other warning to disperse: If such an announcement was made, it didn't penetrate the noises of the confused crowd to reach my vantage point. In another moment, things had erupted. In that chaos, I was able to distinguish shouts of "Leave, Leave" and "Get off the ship," apparently from police

Protesters also have charged that plainclothes officers failed to identify themselves as policemen during the incident.

I saw a number of plainclothes officers aboard the Queen. Some helped make arrests. I can't recall seeing any of the plainclothes officers display their badges, though I obviously didn't see everything that happened.

I had my sheriff's press card in my hand with my notebook throughout the incident. I only displayed it to a couple of officers who loomed up in front of me in the confusion, apparently mistaking me for a protester. I was not unduly troubled in covering the protest.

And what of the initial reaction of police after the protest? Long Beach Police Lt. Robert Klein, field commander at the Queen that night, told another LP-T reporter: "When (protesters) started commandeering the ship, marching six and seven abreast, carrying signs and sweeping people out of the way, officers were called to the Promenade Deck to keep the peace."

AS I MOVED ahead of the protest line, trying to take pictures, the line moved in disorganized fashion.

Several times during their march, shouts of "Wait a minute" from the rear ranks brought those in front to a halt, apparently to allow persons in back to catch up. The breadth of the line also seemed to fluctuate, at least among the front ranks visible to me, but generally seemed to nearly span the deck's width.

Protesters said that night they had taken advantage of free nighttime en-trance policies in boarding the Queen, but had paid to park nearby. Whether they "commandeered" the former luxury liner by marching, chanting and shouting around the two top decks where scheduled events were in progress, I can't say.

That question, along with all the others, will have to be answered in Mansell's report to the city.

GEORGE ROBESON

It begins: "Once up-pun a time..."

16. years - was over. After four hours of tension, bluffs that were good and bluffs that weren't, and fast talk that sounded like the script from "The Cincinnati Kid," four of us had wound up just about even.

So the jokes started. Unfortunately, they were all puns. If you think I'm going to suffer through them alone, think again. You will share the "ouches" with me today.

For example, there was the African chief whose tribesmen had built a solid gold throne for him. He loved to sit on his throne, but he had to get off before the tax collector made his rounds of the villages, for he couldn't possibly afford the tax. So he had his throne hidden away between the ceiling and the roof of the hut.

On tax collection day, everything went well. The chief was assessed for four cows, 16 goats and a small farm plot. The collector left, and the chief was just breathing his satisfied sigh when the tremendous weight of the gold throne broke the grass ceiling, and the throne fell to the floor of the but and crushed him to death as he sat in his cheap wicker chair.

And the moral of this story is: Penple who live in grass houses shouldn't stow thrones.

IF YOU'VE RETURNED from the bathroom, I must tell you the second story, and this about the queen who suspected that the queen of another country was plotting against her. So she sent her . . . well, um, er . . . boyfriend — a Count — to get close to the rival queen and send back intelligence reports. The Count left, a year passed, and there were no reports. Queen No. One suspected the truth: the Count had tumbled for the notorious charms of Queen No. Two. So she sent a couple of security guys to bring him home for questioning, Back in his own country, he admitted that he was in love with the queen he had been sent to spy upon.

With his neck on the block, he refused the queen's last demand. The leadsman raised his terrible axe, and began the downward stroke as the Count shouted:

"Wait, wait, I'll tell, I'll . . . '

It was too late to stop the axe, and the queen did not learn the details of the plot against her until it was too late to save her kingdom.

And the moral of this story is: Don't hack your Counts before they

Are any of you still out there? Only the hardlest ones, I'm sure. And for you masochists, there's more. A 19-year-old sailor at the poker table told this one, so I'm sure he will come to no good:

A SHARPIE SALESMAN from Seattle went to the freezing seas of northern Alaska with a new gimmick. He knew he could not sell iceboxes to Eskimos, but he figured a charcoal hibachi would move well.

None of the Eskimos listened long to his sales-pitch, except for one i loo-rube who might have purchased an icebox.

"You got those little skin-covered boats," the salesman said, "and they've got to be freezing your seaf-skins off, right? But the boat covers you to your chest, right? Okay, all you need is one of these dandy little kayak-warmers inside and you can fish all day and night, with no dis-

A PHYSIOLOGIST SAYS that men experience "periods" caused by hormonal rhythms.

Dr. Estelle Ramey of George Washington University school of medicine, Washington, D.C., contends that men are conditioned to deny evidence of such cycles. The result is unnecessary physical stress on males, leading to a higher rate of heart attack, suicide and disease of the gastrointestinal tract..

Evidence points to a four- to sixweek pattern of male hormone secretion, Dr. Ramey says in a report in U.S. Medicine, a newspaper for physi-

Even patients suffering from chronic depression responded favorably to the drug, the doctor reports.

Other studies in Brazil, Denmark, Finland, Sweden and the Netherlands have shown the drug to be as effective as imipramine or amitriptyline. One researcher found that the new compound works much more quickly than imipramine, a popular drug for the treatment of depression.

The report is in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Huntington Beach Union High School District's crowded classroom conditions has set up 10 priorities. Districtcoordinator Glen Dysinger said the recommendations will be presented to the school district board of trustees

In a report to trustees. Dysinger, who heads the committee, told the board the suggested programs involve shifting the student population, building more facilities and changing schedules.

Programs presented to trustees, but not in priority order include:

- Multi-block schedule similar to college scheduling in which the student plans his own schedule, selects his own teachers. This plan would utilize hinch period and a 4 p.m. class time, thus adding to schoolday time,
- Temporary mini-campus would utilize district's present sites and unused sites on which to build "in-
- Modified extended day now in effect, but not a complete solution to population problem.
- Four-day work experience would lead to improved career education, some believe, and would attract support of students and parents because of the lessened need for capital investment.
- Vocational and advanced placement in junior college — a plan that already is operating on a limited basis and makes use of existing costly facilities. Limited, however, to students with aptitudes in scholastic or vocational areas that would justify starting college early.

Ninth Grade junior high school - plan would utilize existing buildings and reduce transportation costs but might be difficult for community to accept although plan has been proved successful in many cities,

- Use of church and tract facilities has advantage of little or no capital investment and is quickly available, but at best is only a temporary solution.
- Community as a school students would receive education in business, commercial or industrial plants.
- Double sessions or night school economical,
- Build more schools a fine solution but it costs

DEATS ENDORSEMENT

The Primary Election on June 6 should not be considered a "popularity contest." On that day we will select a man to be the Republican candidate for Assemblyman from the 39th District. Let's make that selection carefully and choose the man best qualified with experience, knowledge of government and with the time and desire to devote his best efforts to the conduct of that office. I urge every serious man and woman to vole for PAUL DEATS to be our new Assemblyman.

I don't know how much you have set aside in savings but you should really resist the idea of giving up your life insurance policies, at your age and with family responsibili-

That's what you're being asked to do. The life insurance you'd buy with the fund shares is plan-completion insurance. You're being offered a contractual mutual-fund plan, and the insurance you get with that plan is geared to assuring that the number of shares you sign up to buy will be bought, should you die before your own payments are completed.

Your basic choice is between insurance protection of a cash-value type and a

That means it can display a pattern of wide swings, both up and down. That's okay if you can afford the risk, but I doubt that you'd find it comfortable or prudent in your cir-

Q. I have my life savings invested in utility bonds. My only income, other than that, is Social Security. My wife is earning an average salary. Would municipal bonds be better and save some income tax at the same

A. In your case, I doubt it. You list four bonds in which you have invested $45,000. Two of those bonds yield 91/4 per cent, one nine per cent and the last 83/4 per cent. Your joint income tax return would have to put you in the 40 per cent tax bracket before you could equal that kind of taxable income at the current average return of good tax-exempt bonds.

Your bonds are of top quality and I see no reason for any concern on your part over having your investment concentrated in the utility sector. The diversification argument is much more pertinent to stocks than to bonds. Your timing on the purchase of these bonds, by the way, could hardly have been better in terms of the current income they pro-

Chavez headquarters may move to Phoenix

- With Cesar Chavez in the 17th day of his "fast of love," a Farm Workers unspokesman said Sunday the union was considering moving its national headquarters here.

Chavez began his fast to protest a new law passed by the Arizona Legislature and signed by the governor regulating agricultural labor relations. The farm-workers claim it is intended to inhibit their organizing efforts and is weighted in favor of the growers.

Chavez had lost 25 poo u n d s Sunday and weighed 142½, but his condition was generally satisfactory. He takes nothing but water.

CHAVEZ had some nausea Saturday but was reported to have recovered from that attack Sunday. His chronic back ailment resulting from a 25-day last in 1968 - gives him more or less constant pain. a spokesman said, and a high level of uric acid posed a possibility of kidney problems. But the spokesman said Chavez 'seemed stronger" Sunday

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) than in the past few days Chavez was conducting his fast in a community center in the heart of the Mexican-American barrio on the city's South Side.

The move of the headquarters here from Keene, Calif., is being "seriously talked about," the spokes-man said, but no decision had been reached.

"For all practical purposes, most of the leader-ship is here now and will be for the foreseeable fu-ture," he said. "This is where the center of the action is because of the new law and the pressure the growers are putting on the union."

THE UNION, in protest of Gov. Jack Williams' signing of the law, is backrecall movement against him.

As new voters are registered, they are asked to sign a recall petition. The workers said they had gathered more than 15,000 signatures as of Sunday, one week after the drive started.

It would take about 104,000 signatures of registered voters to force a recall election.

Father shoots son to death

EUREKA, Utah (UPI) -"You shot me in the finger, dad," the boy said. And then he died.

Those were the last words of 8-year-old Robert Lynch, accidentally shot to death when his father's pistol discharged during a family outing at Topaz Mountain over the weekend.

Sheriff Edgar Mills of Millard County said Robert's father, Eugene Lynch of Sandy, Utah, had shot a rabbit and was reloading

The bullet apparently struck the boy's finger and then plunged into his chest

Nixon deal with union charged

Teamsters backed wage curbs, got favors, paper says

SEATTLE (UPI) - The Seattle Post-Intelligencer charged Sunday that for-mer Teamsters President Dave Beck received a moratorium on paying $1.3 million in back taxes as part of a Nixon administration "deal" to get the union's support of wageprice guidelines.

Beck promptly denied the accusations and the former federal taxman who handled his case called the charges "kind of ab-

The newspaper, in a copyright story in its Sunday editions, said the administration allowed Beck to make time payments on $1,3 million in taxes, penalties and interest in exchange for Teamster support.

"Beck's tax break was negotiated by John B. Connally, who resigned suddenly (May 16) as secretary of the Treasury after the P-I began delving into administration links with the Teamsters," the paper

THE POST-Intelligencer said the Teamster support was needed by the administration to overcome opposition to the planned -but then unannounced wage-price guidelines by the AFL-CIO President George Meany, It alleged that the "deal" also included a review of the prison sentence of another former Teamster president. James R. Hoffa, whose term was later commuted by President Nixon.

Beck, a Seattle resident who served as Teamsters president from 1952 until he went to prison in 1982 for tax fraud, said the union had nothing to do with the settlement of his tax case. "It's easy to make statements, harder to prove them," Beck said.

Neal Warren, former Internal Revenue Service director for Seattle who handled Beck's case, called the accusations of a government-Teamster deal "kind of absurd."

"THE CASE was handled like any other taxpayer's. Every time you have a tax case of that number of dollars, you have a problem collecting it. People don't have that number of dollars" Warren said. The newspaper said that the $1.3 million was immediately due and collectable by IRS seizure of Beck's properties.

"Beck owns enough to cover the obligation but under the seizure and sale procedures used by IRS against others, Beck could, as others have, ended up a pauper," the article said.

"Instead, Beck got on the phone and began to collect from top Teamsters for past favors. What he collected was time. The Teamsters bought it for

THE newspaper said Beck conferred with Teamsters President Frank F. Fitzsimmons last July 5 at the union's conventon in Miami. The article said Fitzsimmons then talked with Connally, who was "under a Nixon mandate" to win Teamster support. "On July 7, the Nixon administration agrees to Fitzsimmons' demands in return for the pledge Teamsters publicly support Nixon's economic moves, including wageprice control. Teamster demands: 1. Hoffa gets parole 'review.' 2. Beck gets 'break' on his $1.3 million tax jeopardy," the Post-Intelligencer said. The newspaper contended that President Nixon was already considering the wage-price controls at that time, a full month before he announced them. The newspaper noted that the U.S. Parole Board's announcement of "new and substantial information" requiring a re-view" of Hoffa's request for parole came three days after the Fitzsimmons-

Connally meeting.

A day for memories ... and reaffirmation

Memorial Day - the traditional time for mourning the nation's war dead - also marks a reaffirmation of life.

As the dead are honored, so the living use the holiday to celebrate the joys of being -- a balmy climate, the out of doors (hopefuly smog-free) and the time to follow myriad pursuits of pleasure.

Free for a day from the bonds of school, children flock to parks and beaches. Teen-agers bicycle with their own special ahandon. And adults drink in the benefits of sea and surf.

It's if the dead say, "Live in memory of us. It's our wish that you do so."

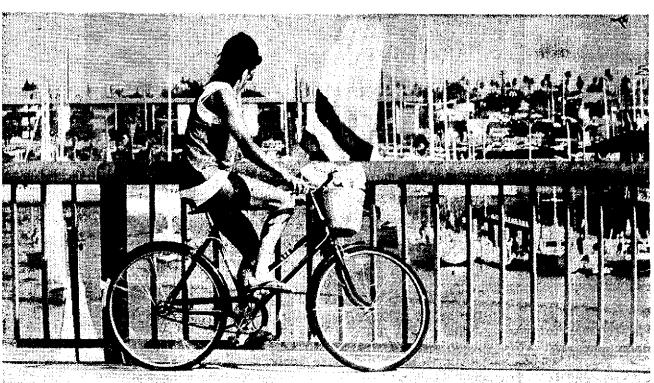

And if there is a special sadness as people remember that before the 105th annual Memorial Day rolls around next year, there will be more young men to be honored posthumously, there also is cause to celebrate for those who have and will survive.

Memories crowd in among the holiday throng. It is a bittersweet time, the most poignant of special days.

Assemblyman James Hayes has introduced a bill which he believes could revolutionize education in Cali-

AB 1170, to be heard June 20 before the Assembly Committee on Education, calls for a new method of testing the intelligence of children.

Ultimately, contends Hayes, it could mean individually programmed education for students according to their strengths and weaknesses, abilities and disabilities. "Our education system presently puts the same learning dose out for every child," Hayes said. "When that dose proves to be unpalatable, we then provide remedial education.

"It is time we changed all that. This legislation will allow each child to be trained as an individual and to be given custom education based on his individual learning

"In the long-run, we will have not only better educated citizens but citizens better adjusted to the stresses of our society."

Dr. Mary Meeker, director of school psychology training at Loyola University and author of a proposal which prompted the Hayes bill, has been involved in research on the new method for the past 10 years.

ACCORDING TO Dr. Meeker, the new method, called the structure of intellect (SOI) factored test, has been used with success in California in several programs for the gifted (Lompoc and East Whittier) and in school districts in other states, including Pennsylvania, New York, Illinois and Wisconsin.

Currently, Dr. Meeker is instructing Los Angeles County psychologists who work with the mentally retarded on how to administer and evaluate the test.

"The method is not new or unproven by any means," Dr. Meeker said.

"The significance of the Hayes legislation is that if assed, it will be the first time a state anywhere has authorized a pilot study to determine the feasibility of implementing the SOI method on a statewide basis."

AB 1170 provides for the establishment of pilot programs for 5 to 8-year-olds in one or more school districts to be chosen by the state superintendent of public in-

State funds of $150,000 will be appropriated to the program and results of the pilot study, prepared by the superintendent, must be submitted to the legislature by

DR. MEEKER, who has asked to be considered for coordinator of the program, noted that the SOI is based on 18 years of research at USC.

"During that time, psychologists have discovered a great number of intellectual abilities (90 of a possible 120 have been identified thus far) which have bearing on the way children learn.

"Subsequent research has resulted in a means of testing these abilities and a program to strengthen abilities where weaknesses are indicated."

There are several advantages of the SOI over the traditional LQ, method of testing children, Dr. Meeker believes.

"The LQ, test does not indicate intellectual abilities or disabilities. Instead, it can only predict very generally the child's intellectual range.

"This is why you have two children with identical Q scores who perform very differently. Their intellectual range may be the same, yet one may have strengths in intellectual abilities which predispose him to success in a classroom while the other lacks these abili-

ANOTHER ADVANTAGE is that the SOI method can help the teacher develop "how" the child learns as well as "what" he learns.

"Because we cannot know today what a child will have to know when he enters the work force 20 years from now, we should be putting more emphasis on teaching him how to learn.

"Certain intellectual abilities are more important than others in the actual process of learning - yet their development is all but ignored in the schools as they are

"With the SOI method of individually-programmed corriculum, these abilities can be strengthened." Dr. Meeker emphasized that her enthusiasm for the SOI is in no way a criticism of the Stanford-Binet or any other type of I.Q. test. "These tests are good, but they do not go far

The Aces on bridge IRAG. CORN JR.

As the "unloaded gun" is the one that kills, so the routine bridge hand can become destructive to declarer's hopes.

Today's game hand gives all the appearances of being routine. However, the careful declarer must time his plays wisely to bring in his contract.

Vulnerable: Both Dealar: West

The bidding:

North East Double Pass 4 ♥ All pass West Opening lead: King of clubs

The bidding is worthy of particular note. North chose to double one club despite his spade shortness since his alternatives were even less appealing. South responded with a jump to two hearts — an invitational bid but not forcing. Since a one heart response could have been made with no strength, the two-heart response showed something in the order of 9-11 points and asked the doubler to proceed if he had doubled on more than a minimum hand. North's four-heart bid ended the auction.

DECLARER WINS the club king with the ace and draws two round of trumps. His plan is to discard one of his black suit losers on dummy's fourth diamond.

Declarer leads a diamond to dummy and a diamond back to his queen. West wins the ace, cashes two clubs and leads a spade. Declarer wins and hopefully plays diamonds, rooting for a 3-3 split. This fails to materialize and declarer can no longer make the contract.

The successful declarer provides for the more probable uneven diamond split (and, since he re-membered the bidding, he knows that West has the diamond ace)

HE WINS THE club ace, draws two trumps ending in his hand and leads a diamond to dummy. However, instead of leading a diamond to his queen as did the losing declarer, he returns to his hand with another trump to lead another diamond to dummy.

West's ace is played perforce while dummy plays low and declarer now has a sure discard on the diamond king.

Watch those routine Even when not hands. loaded they may backfire.

Homosexuality is not an illness

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN competent

DEAR ABBY: Recently you printed a letter from someone who claimed to be a "well-adjusted homo-sexual."

There is no such thing as a well-adjusted homosexual: the two terms are antonymous. Homosexuality, male or female, is a form of sexual deviation which is symptomatic of personality disorder. By any reasonable standard of human development, homosexuality is an abnormal human condition which needs treatment. It is, in effect a form of emotional illness.

I think that you would be as interested as I am in what your readers think about the subject.

HAPPY HETEROSEXUAL DEAR HAPPY: By whose definition is homosexuality an illness? There are homosexuals who live socially well-adjusted, discreet, personally happy lives, whose homosexuality would come as a surprise to many of their close heterosexual friends.

The fact that homosexuality is morally condemned by most people in our culture makes it seem abnormal. In other times and in other cultures it has not always been so judged.

Much of the maladjustment seen in homosexuals is due to the rejection, persecution and gullt imposed upon them by intolerant and ignorant contemporar-

MARK DONOHUE... The winner

Pit foulup at Indy cost runnerup spot

Combined News Services

INDIANAPOLIS — Mark Donohue Sunday weathered some of the biggest rhubarbs ever to be confirmed winner of the Indianapolis "500" but an apparent foulup in the pits cost Jerry Grant runnerup honors

While a protest challenging Donohue as the winner was denied, a second protest made Al Unser the runnerup instead of Grant, who was dropped to 12th position.

Donohue cashed in big for his victory, talking home $218,767.90, as the total purse for the Indy classic was more than $1 million for the third successive year.

Donohue's take was somewhat less than Al Unser's $238,454 last year and the record $271,697 Unser took home in 1970. But it was quite a bit more than the $23,697 that the Newtown Square, Pa., driver got for finishing 25th

The Indy purse in 1970 was auto racing's first of more than $1 million.

That gave Unser a three-year finish of two first and a second in racing's richest gasoline derby. Behind Unser, the others through 11th place move up one spot.

But Grant, Seattle, Wash., lost his No. 2 position in the final amended official finish posted by the United States Auto Club after race stewards allowed a protest by George Bignotti, chief mechanic for the Vel's-Parnelli Jones racing team of Torrance, Calif.

Bignotti contended that Grant, on his fifth and final pit stop only 13 laps from the finish, took on fuel illegally from teammate Bobby Un-ser's pit. Earlier, USAC officials denied charges of illegal refueling by Grant's crew.

Chief steward Harlan Fengler said evidence shown in films he and other officials viewed earlier Sunday and from reports of witnesses, that Grant's pit crew did indeed refuel his car illegally, and as a result, he was not credited any laps after the 187th.

Fengler said the designer-builder Dan Gurney, now a retired race driver and head of the All-American racing team of Santa Ana, Calif., had three days in which to appeal but added, "Dan doesn't deny (fuel) lines were hooked up'

"Grant's car was fully in Bobby Unser's pit," said Fengler. "It would have been all right had it been pushed back a few feet into Grant's own

There was no indication whether an appeal would be lodged but Gurney's protest of Donohue's first place finish was disallowed. In fact,

luck in France

First came a strength-sapping case of hepatitis in 1969-70, forcing him out for the season.

Then there was a severe cut inside the mouth that developed complications, slowing his progress during 1970-71. There were other physical problems, such as muscle pulls, sprains, small fractures.

The 1971-72 season was even more frustrating for Bob Lynn, 6-10, 250-pound center for the Long Beach State basketball team. He started only a few games and was used only briefly in games near the end of the season and in the playoffs.

But regardless, Portland of the National Basketball Assn., used a seventh-round draft choice to gain rights Lynn's agent, San Fernando auto dealer, Vic Weiss sought other possibilities, including a professional league in France. It was a wise move.

Where Lynn would have tried out with American professional clubs on a chance basis, he now has the security of a substantial five-figure contract, living expenses and a car for playing next season in Lyons,

State are excited, too.

"It's a great break for Bobby," said 49er coach Jerry Tarkanian. "After he gets some experience in that league, I think he'll be able to get an American professional contract that would provide some security." CUFF STUFF: As rumored here a week ago, USC has signed a press-breaker, 5-6 Victor Kelly from the College of Southern Idaho. Read this report from a major basketball scouting service: "Faster than a speeding bullet; takes charge in middle of break; reasonable shooting threat to 17 feet and breaks down defenses. Under severe handicap in half-court man-for-man defenses, so make sure you're a run and shoot team if you recuit him." ... Kelly played at Western High in Washington,

WORLD-CLASS SPEED BOATS ROAR TODAY

Three world record-holders are featured in today's annual Memorial Day Regatta, scheduled to begin at 10 at Marine Stadium.

The fastest of these is the new K-unlimited flatbottom "Liberty" owned by Ron Woodruff of Palo Verdes and driven by Gordon Jennings of San Diego. Three weeks ago at Parker, Ariz., it broke the world kilometer speed record of 116 mph, with an upriver run of 124 mph and a downriver run of 119 mph.

Also attempting to hold off all challengers are record-holders Bill Faster of Tustin in his "Miss Used II," and Bud Murphy of Whittier in his "Go For Broke."

Long Beach drivers in competition will be Mark and Ron Allison, Bill Burnett, Bob Marshall, Dr. Stan Morrish, Dan and Bob Schatz, Norm Taylor and John Wolk-

The race is sponsored by the Lions Club. Nine classes of high performance sprint flatbottoms and hydro-planes and more than 90 boats will compete.

Krantz muscles city golf Lynn off to try title away from Gaumer

Staff Writer

Whoever coined the phrase that golfers drive for show and putt for dough hasn't seen Mike Krantz in action. The 20-year-old collegian won the Long Beach City golf title at Skylinks Sunday, dethroning Jim Gaumer, 2 up, with almost no help from his putter. Booming drives, steady iron plan and consistent boldness were the ingredients that enabled the pride of Long Beach State to overcome what he labeled as "terrible" putting.

Young golfers sometimes criticize themselves unfairly, but in the putting line, the 6-foot-2, 180-pounder from Fullerton could point to figures for his accuracy.

In the final 73 holes Saturday and Sunday he sank only two putts longer than six feet. Both of them came Sunday — ironically, on the first and last hole.

The last, a nine-footer, was for a birdie, but it really wasn't needed. He could have two-putted from that distance and still won the match.

There were few spectacular shots and not much drama - in sharp contrast to Saturday — until Gau-mer sank a pressurepacked 16-foot birdie putt on the 35th hole to cut his deficit to one.

Only one other time, on the 28th hole, had Gaumer drawn within one of the lead. He trailed 3 down in the morning and by as Eddie Fisher, his nerves as fluttery as his knuckleball, was still shaking 30 minutes after the final out Sunday.

He was also shaking his head and saying, "I'd give $100 for an easy ninth inning. I can't take this day after day."

The Angels seemingly have perfected a new act. They assume a comforta-ble lead and then writhe and squirm and sweat as the opposition comes frighteningly close to beating them.

It happened again Sunday afternoon. The Angels were leading 4-1 when the Royals lashed out with a double and two singles off Fisher and brought the potential winning run to the plate with no one out in the ninth.

While manager Del Rice was helping himself to a tranquilizer, Fisher promptly retired the next three men and the Angels escaped, 4-2.

It was their third win in succession and it is their longest streak of the season. Their happiness was even more pronounced because Clyde Wright returned and pitched like he was a 20-game winner.

He also hit like a .300 hitter. Wright delivered his third career homer and added a single to pace an 11-hit Angel assault on Dick Drago and Tim Burgmeier. But the story was his arm which has been the site of stiffness and soreness for almost a month.

Wright did not appear to incapacitated in the slightest as he went seven innings, restricting the Royals to four hits before (Continued Page S-2, Col. 6)

Needing only to lag, Krantz rolled in his second longest putt of the weekend. "I didn't make a 20-foot-

I'm just a fair wind play-er," said Krantz. "It bothered me a lot, but I think it hurt my opponent, too."

Indeed, it did. Gaumer won four holes on the front side in the afternoon but lost three. He went out in 39, one less than Krantz. It was giveaway for both players.

Gaumer shot 36-38--74 in the morning and played the last nine holes in even par despite a double-bogev Six on the 12th hole. He lost that to a bogey, missing a 20-inch putt.

HOUSTON Maury Wills knelt in the on-deck circle Sunday, his batting helmet on his head and bat in hand.

Yet he knew he wouldn't be hitting and why.

It was in the ninth inning, the Dodgers needed two runs to stay in the game and it was hardly the place for an .111 hitter which, at the moment, Wills is.

As it developed, it was a correct manuever. Frank Robinson batted for Wills with the bases loaded, hit a long fly that drove in a run and sparked the Dodgers to a two-run ninth inning to tie the game at 5-

The Dodgers finally won It in the 11th, 6-5, with the help of two Houston errors and left Texas with Iwo wins in the three games in the Astrodome.

They also left with a tidy swag, nearly $32.000. the result of 118,144 admissions for three games in the Astrodome. Sunday's Sunday's game drew 38,255 but the lonliest man in the park in the ninth inning was Wills, the 39year-old former captain of the Dodgers. He'd started the game at a month, but now, when a base hit became imperative, he was lifted for a pinch hitter. "It's third time in 14 years I've gone out for a pinch hitter," Maury said afterward. "I guess that shows I've done some-have made exactly the same move. "Yes, I would have to pinch-hit for me in that spot. I know what's right and I'd never put myself before the good of the team. I just want to be honest. I like to think I can be flexible."

So Maury stepped aside in a critical situation, the type of situation he normally relishes.

It was Robinson, like Maury, a leader, who stepped in and drilled a long fly that Jesus Alou dropped, allowing a run to score.

The fact it was Robbie who batted for Wills made no difference.

"He's got to hit in that spot," Wills said again. "If he doesn't bat for me, there's Buckner, Davis, Lefebvre and Crawford coming up so there's a chance he wouldn't get used at all. Yes, he's got to hit for me.

"As for Robble, I'm not competing with him for a leadership or a popularity position. Anyway, I don't consider myself a leader. I've just been placed in that position, I suppose, because I was always giving 100 per cent.

"Now it's tough because I'm not playing. It's tough to lead from the bench. A guy has to go out and do When you sit there and tell someone what he's doing right or wrong, it's like the coaches telling him.'

Sunday's victory pulled the O'Malleys within 11/2 games of the Astros whose Tom Bigelow, Whitewater, Wis., won the race in one hour, seven minutes, 52.80 seconds for the biggest victory of his career.

Foyt, Houston, Tex., was almost a full lap out in front on the one-mile dirt track at the DuQuoin State Fairgrounds when he pulled in quickly for a fuel stop.
The fuel spilled over and ignited as he pulled out of the Foyt jumped from the car and fell over a hedge before the fire in his clothing could be extinguished. The car kept on running to the first turn. He was taken to Marshall Browning Hospital where officials said he suffered first and second degree burns on his face, right arm and right leg and a dislocated ankle. He was listed in stable condition.

Houston got two runs back against starter Tommy John in the fifth and then went on top with two more in the seventh off of Hoyt Wilhelm. Houston took a 5-3 lead with an unearned run in the eighth, the result of Bill Russell's fielding error.

But in the Dodgers' ninth Dake Sims opened with a double and Russell followed with a single. Pinch-hitter Wes Parker walked and that brought Robinson out to pinch-hit Robbie hit a drive that Ylou had centerfielder Ces-Cedeno collided on, scoring Sims on a sacrifice fly and leaving the bases loaded. Bill Buckner then grounded to second baseman Tommy Helms as the tying run crossed the plate.

Jim Brewer, who earned his third win, allowed the Astros one hit in the ninth and 10th. In the Dodgers' 15th, Russell reached base when second baseman Bobby Fenwick, who replaced the injured Helms, threw wild for an error. Parker sacrificed and, after Steve Garvey grounded out, pinch hitter Bobby Valentine sent a roller to first base that Lee May booted, allowing Russell to score the winning run.

'Good as I had to be'

Blue's debut--5 shutout innings

OAKLAND 02 — "I was as good as I had to be." said Oakland A's left-hander Vida Blue Sunday after his first starting assignment of the baseball season.

And that was good enough to hold the Chicago White Sox scoreless on one hit through five innings in a game the A's eventually won 5.4 on George Hendrick's two-out, two-run homer in the 10th inning.

Blue, the 22-year-old pitcher who was a contract holdout until early this month, gave his arm only one formal warmup, in a one inning relief appearance, before starting Sunday. "It's tired." Blue said as he dumped his left elbow into a tub of ice in the A's clubhouse.

"I think five innings was about right."

The added, "I was nervous because there were about 45,000 people here to see me pitch."

Blue settled down after walking three batters in the first two innings and totalling 43 pitches in those frames. "Dick Williams (A's manager) came out to talk to me in the second inning, just to give me a breather,'

Next time out, the pitcher said, "I'll try to go about seven innings. That would be about right, I need at leas four starts to get back where I was last year."

At this point of the 1971 season, Blue was 10-2 and e route to a 24-8 record, including 30% strikeouts and 1.8 earned run average, that brought him America League's Cy Young and Most Valuable Player awards.

Then came the off-season contract squabble with A owner Charles O. Finley, with Blue asking for $115,00 and finally settling for $63,000.

Blue didn't walk a batter Sunday after the second in ning. He struck out six — including the last two men he faced — and gave up only a third-inning single to Dick Allen. He threw 77 pitches and 49 of them were in the strike zone

Before his next scheduled start. Friday night in Baltimore, "I'll just sign some autographs and throw a little 'fuesday," Blue said.

Blue's drawing power at the gate was illustrated by Sunday's crowd of 43,300, biggest of the season for the A's, although more than 10,000 of the fans were youngsters admitted free on Scout Day.

OMAHA, Neb. - Now that the fight is over, every-body is willing to acknowledge that it never should have occurred. Unknown to Ron Stander, a hospital room had been reserved for him.

'We were afraid he might get really hurt," one of his friends disclosed over a drink in the hours after the fight. "We knew he was overmatched. He was just part of a TV promotion."

He was just part of a slaughter, too. It belonged in the stockyards here.

"The blood was in his eyes," Joe Frazier said with concern. "He couldn't see."

Had the blood prompted the heavyweight champion to soften his assault?

"The man couldn't see, but the blood didn't bother me. I worked in blood all my life. I was a butcher in a slaughterhouse in Philadelphia for two years. I'm not making fun of it. Blood has been part of my life."

It still is, except that the unbeaten champion never has bled. His victims do.

Ron Stander needed 17 stitches to close four wounds two above his nose, one over his right eye, another under it. His bulbous red nose was broken. But somehow he had remained on his chunky legs. His manager, Dick Noland, had told Dr. Jack Lewis that he wouldn't let him come out for the fifth round, and the Nebraska Boxing Commission physician relayed the message to Zack

She also kne that her husband's ability was being overdrawn, that little-known California heavyweight, Ken Norton, some times one of Frazier's sparring partners, was a mor suitable opponent.

"He's a little boy at heart," she continued. "Boxin made him an instant hero around here. He was an exce lent husband until he turned pro. Then his whole looked on life changed. You can't raise two kids on fantasy."

Lunn held off Gary Player with a final-round 69 Sunday and wrote an end to his year-long slump with a two-stroke victory in the Atlanta Golf Classic.

The husky, 210-pound Lunn birdied the final hole in a drizzling rain for a 275, 13 strokes under par on the hilly 6,883-yard Atlanta Country Club course.

Player, the little South African shotmaker who had shared the lead starting play Sunday, lost his chance for victory last when he bogeyed the 17th he finished with a 71-277.

Veterans Lou Graham and Dave Hill made mild challenges during the day but failed, Graham finished with a 70-278 and Hill was 71-279.

Homero Blancas tied Hill for fourth place with a final-round 69.

Jack Nicklaus, the Masters champion and pre-tourney favorite in this $130,000 event who held the halfway lead, was 75-76 on

Follmer takes pole

LONDON, N.H. (A) -George Follmer, 38, a vetof the Trans-Am roadracing circuit, took the pole position Sunday in the qualifying round of the Bryar 200 Road Race.

ATLANTA (AP) - Bob his last two rounds and shot into the rocky hillside wasn't a factor on the final

> Lee Trevino, winner of last week's Danny Thomas-Memphis Open, also had his difficulties and closed with a 74. At 288, he was far back in the field. Player, who had a share of the lead at one point late in the round, bogeyed the 15th hole, hitting it into the rocks on the right as he does at least once a round here. He still had a chance un-

Sammy Pondexter, 15, is 6-4, 200, and will be on the San Joaquin Memorial varsity this coming season. "He's a monster." says Roscoe. "I'm sure he's stronger than either of us were at that age." . . . Roscoe was heavily recruited by most major schools, including two from the Pacific Coast Athletic Assn., Fresno State and UC Santa Barbara. The latter team was decimated graduation and, to compound its woes, Oregon picked one of its chief recruiting targets, 6-814 Bruce Coldren from Dos Pueblos High, Coldren averaged mere than 25 points and 13 rebounds this past season. The penalty against Grant is the heaviest position loss at the Speedway in modern times and in terms of money, it is the heaviest penalty ever assessed against a driver.

Also disallowed was a third protest by Dick Sommers, Indianapolis, co-owner of Jim Hurtubise's car. Sommers said Hurtubise, North Tonawanda. N.Y., should have finished 16th instead Fengler ruled Hurtubise was automatically disqualified when his car stalled and went off the race course. It was later restarted and continued in the race.

Krantz consistently cracked his drives between 250 and 280 yards, and once he made use of a trailing wind on No. 14, a to belt one 349

Gaumer was no weakling off the tee, but by always 760 having to hit first, he gave his opponent an advantage of watching his approach shot into the green.

Krantz made his power pay off mostly on the par-5s. He had eight birdies. seven pars and one conceded eagle (20 feet) on the par-5s in his last three matches (73 holes).

Both players birdied the first two holes to start the match. They halved the next three in pars, then Krantz won the sixth with a par, the par-5 seventh with a 4-foot birdie and the eighth with a par.

Krantz boosted his margin to 4 up when Gaumer had trap trouble on No. 12. It wasn't until the 14th when Krantz lost a hole. Ironically, it was a par-5 and he didn't birdie it.

After the givenway on the front side in the afternoon, Gaumer birdled the 10th hole (No. 28) from four feet to leave himself only one down.

But Krantz saved par on the tough 11th from 4½ feet after Gaunier missed from six, and then Gaumer flubbed that 20-incher on the 12th to go three down again. He won the 15th and 17th, but it was too little

Graebner in French final

PARIS (UPI) - Thirdseeded Stan Smith and his American Davis Cup teammate Clark Graebner Sunday reached the last 16 of the men's singles at the French Open tennis championships along with defending title holder. Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia.

Smith, the reigning U.S. Open champion from Sea Pines, S.C. was not convincing in beating Belgian Davis Cupper Bernard Migot, 6-3, 7-5, 7-9 6-3, hut Graebner and Kodes both won easily.

The New Yorker took Jan Herbic 6-1, 6-0 6-4 while Kodes, beaten by Smith in the Forest Hills final last year, swept aside the challenge of South Africa's Frew MacMillan, 6-

3. 6-0, 6-2. With Harald Solomon, of Silver Spring, Md. having gained the last 16 on Saturday, the United States, with three men, has the best remaining representation. Italy, France, Czecho-slovakia, Spain and Australia have two men through, while South Africa. Russia and Argentina have one survivor.

Nitehawks fall to loser's bracket

By CHUCK MEDICK

In a script as involved as one of TVs daytime spap operas, the Lakewood Memorial Day Softball Classic plowed into this morning.

The three-day tournament concludes today with contests at 11:30 a.m., 1:15, 3:15 and possibly 5 games, and your guess is as good as the next guy's on which teams will be involved.

With two games still to be played at press time Sunday night, the only "sure" bets in today's schedule had the Nitehawks in the 1:15 loser's bracket game and Burbank in the 3:15 and (possibly) 5 p.m. title contests.

The Comets emerged as tht tourney's only remaining unbeaten team Sunday evening when they scored six runs in the first inning and then held on to knock the Nitebawks into the loser's bracket with a 6-4 vic-vice in 1946, checks some 20,000 horses a year and photographs another 1,500. So, over the years he's seen some of the best and best-looking.

"I'd have to rate Prove It, Terrang and Quack (the current three-year-old star) as three of the bestlooking I've seen," offers

"After you've been around horses for a while, you can spot them by their peculiarities. For instance, Sand Castle has a peculiar walk that sets him apart. Bob Craft has a horse with a white spot high on his rump. Cougar 2nd has white lines on the side of his barrell. Just as examples.

Does he get fired of look? Price admits the job caring at horses every day? No. not really. You rics with it a great deal of pressure and responsibilimeet a lot of different and interesting people." "There's no room for a mistake. You have to be very, very cautious in every area. They've had several instances of forged registration papers in the Midwest and if you don't check carefully, you can easily get burned."

Price says the most common cases of "wrong" horses develop when, "a groom accidentally takes the wrong horse from his stall and brings him to the receiving barn or often when horses with similar markings are reversed and sent in from the ranch under the wrong name.

"These are the things you catch in the receiving barn. We've heen close before, though, One day we caught a wrong horse in the paddock and had to scratch him. "Actually." continues

Price, "it is a job of concentration. You can't be distracted when you're checking horses. You've also got to be alert around horses for the sake of life and himb. "If you take your eyes

YOUR HOROSCOPE

GEE, UNCLE CHARLIE, YOU'RE THE ONLY GROWN-UP I KNOW

Forecast for Tuesday

Your hirthday today: Finds you putting your life together more coherently. The search for spiritual truth underlies everything you attempt this complex adventurus year. Simplicity is your keyword for most endeavors. Today's natives often benefit from family or partnership ventures.

THAT 'PRECIATES GOOD DURT'

or partnership ventures.

Aries (March 21-April 19):
Haste generates confusion:
slow down, say just what you do intend. Business practically runs itself. Take the needs of loved one into account.

Taurus (April 20-May 20):
Expect an interruption in the midst of your work; realize that it isn't something to blame on the people who have to abandon their hopes.

Gemini (May 21-June 20):
Bring yourself to a one-thingat-a-time pace even tho it may be inconvenient. Speculation will be troublesome, subject to later repercussions.

will be troublesome, subject to later repercussions.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): The test today is whether you can see and stay out of a fight. Remember that while you lose your calm, you miss something else too.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): There are only so many loose ends you can catch up at one time—select what you think you can attend properly and concentrate solely on that.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Impulse runs toward changes of relationship, affiliations. Leave your checkbook at home if you aren't sure of your self-discipline.

aren't sure of your self-discip-line.
Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Just when you think you have reached a balance and have several ventures going, a chal-lenge comes to your abilities.

lenge comes to your abilities.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21):
Normal action pays off in conservative terms. Special opportunity opens amidst exterior readjustments. Take your share while the taking is good.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21):
Don't talk about money and what you want to do with it. Check out the facts and if you still want to go ahead, do so without fanfare.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 191: Your firm convictions carry you thru this day of vigorous discussion and dissent. Courtesy in all travel is essential.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18):

sy in all travel is essential.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18):
There's extra gain for you if you can get an early start on routine. Associates later disagree with very little provocation.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20):
Friends bring access to fortune and good times, along with the usual complications which accompany mixing business and friendship.

Water Project strike impact yet to come

By BOB SCHMIDT From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO - The first strike by state Civil Service employes in Cali-fornia's 122-year history has come and gone without the machinery of govern-ment appearing to have missed a beat.

More than 500 workers on the State Water Project walked off their jobs last Monday at 3 p.m. when the State Personnel Board declined to grant immediate, approval of a staff-recommended 121/2 per cent pay increase.

THE WORKERS went back to work Friday after the pay raise offer was put in writing and agreement was reached to continue negotiating on other employe grievances.

Both sides made the usual claims in a strike situation, the California State Employes' Assn. contending that the $2.9-billion, 600-milelong project was close to breaking down, and the State Department of Water Resources (DWR) responding that supervisory personnel and nonstrikers had kept things normal.

Southern Californians, for whom the project was conceived and constructed felt virtually no impact. When they turned on a fauwater came out.

gate their lands and utilities were able to generate and distribute power.

Nevertheless, while the strike might not have produced much of an impact last week, there will be an impact. Following a pattern in evidence all over the country, California state workers are becoming increasingly militant about their demand that they be given collective bargaining righs.

Almost certainly, eventually, the workers will win those rights. The national trend is definitely in that direction.

And almost certainly, the government's cost of doing business is going to increase because of collecbargaining, which means that taxpayers including, of course, state workers themselves - are going to have to pony up more money.

Once, getting on a government payroll — any government — was considered a prize. While wages rarely equaled salaries in the private sector, there was usually more job secu-

Now, many public employe organization leaders say, job security is a myth and the gap between wages paid public and private workers is so great that it can no longer be tolerated.

Recent years have seen trash collectors paralyze New York by going out on strike, and teachers in a number of school districts, including Los Angeles, close classrooms by striking. Policemen in Vallejo, firemen in Sacramento, professors at San Jose and San Francisco state Colleges, campus maintepersonnel at UC Berkeley, and now, the hydroelectric workers on the State Water Project, all have resorted to work stoppages in labor disputes their governmental electric workers employed by other governmental entities and by private industry receive as much as 25 per cent more money for comparable jobs - CSEA officials acknowledge that achieving collective bar-gaining rights was the prime objective.

CSEA can make a pretty good case that California state workers are at a disadvantage compared to many other public employes, both outside and inside of California.

In 1959, Wisconsin became the first state to give city and county employes the privilege of collective bargaining. Since then, 27 other states, including California, have granted some type of collective bargaining to some employes. California, in 1961, enacted the George Brown Act which gave all public employes within the state the right to "meet and con-fer" with their employers on salaries and working conditions. This language was not considered very strong, and in 1965 the Winton Act took teachers out of the 1961 legislation and set up what amounted collective bargaining guidelines for them.

lu 1968, the Meyers-Milias-Brown Act rucity, county, and district employes from the George Brown Act and gave them limited collective bargaining rights. The result, in California, is a mishmash of cite stances relative to working conditions. Employes of a private utility, for in-stance, may bargain with management on their salaries and working conditions and can strike if they are not satisfied.

Persons performing the same kind of work for a public utility may bargain but not strike. And a state employe has neither right. Somehow, however, transit district employes, including those in the Los Ange-Rapid Transit District. do have the right to strike.

In general, governments promise to pay "prevailing wages" to their employes. In California, the promi is written in the law, but with a qualifier attach -"if the money is available."

Public employe organizations say two things are wrong with that system. First, if a survey is to be made in Jime of 1972, a salary recommendation based on that survey might be made in September, and voted on a couple of months later to go into effect 90 days after that. Anyway, the data on which gin with is six to 12 months old. So public employes are always 12 to 18 months be-hind private sector work-the survey is based to be ers. The second thing wrong, CSEA says, is that governmental entities, particular-ly the state, don't pay attention to the law anyway, survey or no survey. At every level and in every classification, CSEA says, state workers lag behind local and federal government employes and even further behind private sector employes.

THE NEW owner said he wouldn't put the statue in his house.

Then he brightened and "I'll probably donate the statue to another charlty auction. Yes, that's just what I'll do."

It appears, then, that Charlie Chaplin (in bronze) will go on in perpetuity raising money for good causes by being auctioned off for various charities — if someone doesn't melt him down for other

Wahoo, Bad Axe-places to make the heart palpitate

NEW YORK — Every year about this time I dream of touring America with camera and typewriter — and this year I'm going to do it. However, don't believe me, and don't bet on it. I made the same promise last year. In my mind I know where I'm going to go (if I go). To Charleston, S.C., certainly Because a million years ago when I was a student at Ohio State, a homesick rommate orated to me for hours about Charleston being the most beautiful city in the world. I want to foll around

Charleston for days and drink up that beauty (and anything else interesting). I WANT to go to Wahoo and Norfolk, Neb., because they're a "couple of the towns that Darryl F. Zanuck came from"... Any town named Wahoo is worth a visit just so you can say you went wahoo-ing down the street in Wahoo.

And Norfolk - well, that gets pronounced "Norfork" by a lot of people. Even Zanuck, a learned man, told me he'd grown up in "Norfork" when it was really Norfolk. And a lot of Norfolk people wrote to me warning me I'd better watch my spelling.

Bad Axe, Mich., is going to be on my itinerary (if I ever get itinerating). I'm curious about those belowzero temperatures. There must be something good about Bad Axe — the cooling breezes in the heat wave days. And is there a Good Axe somewhere, and if not, why not?

SOME PLACES I'd like to go back to would in-

Maine, a beautiful name, and Pocatello, Idaho, and Moscow, Idaha, and Albany, Ga., which some people pronounce "Albinand Lima, Ohio, which is pronounced as in lima beans, and Skaneateles, N.Y., home of a wonderful restaurant named

And did you know there was a town named Shirley in McLean County, 111.? (Shirley MacLaine might be interested.) I'd like to go back to

Texas . . . to Johnson City, and to LBJ's ranch if they'd let me on the premises, which they probably wouldn't unless I brought my own barbecue . . . and to Galveston and the Calves and the Turf Athletic Club . . . and to Key West and that fine old hotel with the sweeping lawn where Harry Truman's ad-

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller Sunday signed into law a establishing a fivemember state commission to oversee Community Antenna Television (CATV) in New York State.

Rockefeller also signed a second bill which prohibits CATV from exclusive rights to any program, permits news media which currently own CATV operations to continue, and gives the commission the authority to determine how much a landlord can charge for installing CATV services.

Rockefeller said the bills 'assure in this state that this high-potential industry develops in an orderly manner fully responsive to the public interest."

The new commission will set minimum technical, financial and character qualifications for CATV companies, and minimum construction and operational standards for such systems.

"While the bill will preserve the maximum measure if local authority, it also will assure orderly, statewide development and standards of operation essential to the public interest." Rockefeller said.

The cost of the commission will be borne entirely by cable television compa-
